The Spokane Falls

Located in the heart of the city, the falls of the Spokane River flow and often rage as the seasons change. Right now is prime-time viewing for the Falls! The River flows from Lake Coeur d'Alene to Lake Roosevelt and the Spokane Falls are perhaps the most dramatic transition along the 111 mile run. From the earliest of times, the Spokane Falls were a gathering place for the Spokane Tribe of Indians as a source of food and beauty. Many generations later the falls became a gathering place for all nations with EXPO 74. Today the Spokane Falls are a pristine Northwest attraction drawing tens of thousands of spectators throughout the year. Right now is one of the best times to view the Falls when the winter run-off rages. Don't forget to bring your camera!

The Riverfront Park Rotary Fountain

Located on Howard Street at the South entrance to Riverfront Park, the Fountain was dedicated and opened on September 1st, 2005 for the enjoyment of "the people of Spokane." The fountain has 5 stainless steel columns that are 24 feet tall. These support a 30 foot diameter ring containing 40 overhead jets. The jets spray towards the middle of the fountain producing a dome of water and a waterfall in the fountain's center. Eight geysers shoot water upwards. The fountain also has dozens of mist jets, and the 5 boulders have jets that spray sideways. To conserve water, the fountain water is filtered and recirculated so that the Fountain uses only about as much water as a single family residence. Water circulates quickly through the fountain's dozens of water jets, some spraying up to four stories high.

Have You Ever Seen a Red Wagon This Big?

"The Childhood Express" is a larger-than-life symbol of childhood as well as an interactive sculpture. The handle doubles as a slide! Relax on a park bench and enjoy the beauty of the park while your kids play. Or, slide down the handle yourself! (We won't tell anyone...)

The Junior League of Spokane plaque dated August 18, 1990 reads: This sculpture is dedicated to Spokane's children, as a reflection of the past, created in the present, to last into the future.

Garbage Goat Has Been Eating Trash for 38 years

Pressing the button mounted on the basalt rocks behind this sculpture activates a powerful vacuum and children and adults alike can feed garbage and leaves to this voracious critter. During Expo 74 the Garbage Goat was a clever way to get kids to clean up debris on the park grounds. This corten steel sculpture will "eat" small pieces of trash with the aid of its vacuum digestive system. So, don't throw your garbage on the ground, feed it to the Garbage Goat.
